COMING TO THE THEATERS.

Mr. Robert Downing's new-play, "In Search of Happiness," which opens the regular season at the National Theater, September 14, is calculated to elevate the September 14, is calculated to elevate the American stage. Mr. Downing is now looked upon as the sold representative of what may be termed the legitimate drama, and the popular successor of the late John McCullougu, for whom by the way. "In Search of Laplaces," was originally written. But the untimely death of the actor, which occurred a few months after the completion of the play, prevented its production.

completion of the play, prevented its production.

Mr. Downing states that he considers "In Search of Happiness" the strongest play that has ever is en produced upon any stage for many a year. Strong as the faith of Mr. Downing may appear, he is sustained in his opinion by the declaration of poet Longiellow, to whom the late John McCullough read the play. The distinguished American poet foretoid a most brilliant success for it, and an undying reputation for the man producing it.

Mr. Downing has spared no expense in scenery and costumes, and we are promised an artistic and attractive production of "In Search of Happiness."

Mirth and melody will reign supreme next week when Charles E. Blaney's latest ex-travaganza success, "A Boy Wanted," will be profused for the first time in Washing-ton. The comedy is said to centain more funny lines and situations than any other comedy ever written. Harry Clay Blaney, brother to the author, is intrusted to the part of "The Boy," and has made a decided hit in the part. Aside york in "The Hand of Fate" is a surprise even to her friends.

In "Blue Grass" she will have an equally congenial role, being that of a little madeap from the land of last horses and fair women. Furthermore the play is constructed on Mr. Leffing well's most successful lines a strong heart story, culminating in several novel and sensational incidents, and containing plenty of comedy as a sort of sunshine to offset the dramatic shadows. Mr. Leffing well, who is as clever an actor as he is a play wright, having been seen here last in support of Creston Clarke, will have a role well suited to his abilities, and the prospect is good for a repetition of the present week's large business. Popular priceshave proved a bonance for the Bijon.

The initial attraction of the season at the Academy of Music will be the strong romantic American play entitled "Northern Lights." This play is not new to Washington theater-scores, having been seen here last season, and the impression made at that time augers well for the opening week at Manager Rapley's popular house.

The story of the play in brief concerns the villainies of an army surgeon, who possesses a weakness for disposing of his patients in a scientific manner, and who, for variety's sake, aftempts to dispose of his wife. Other phases of the story deal with the Indian question, the hero's work being cut out for him during the ever memorable Custer massacre.

A love story is also presented in a new and attractive manner. The same handsome stage settings will be shown as on its previous production here. The box ofonies Took Place Yesterday Afternoon in the Presence of Several Thousand Persons-Many History of the Congregation.

The corner stone of the new Trinity M. B. Church, to be erected at the corner of Fifth and C streets southeast, was laid yesterially afternoon with appropriate religious and civic ceremonies.

The exercises were impressive and interesting and were witnessed by many members of the congregation of Trinity and other Methodist churches in the city. The first story of the edifice is nearly completed and it was on the first floor of the building which the exercises took place. On this platform were seats for about twelve hundred persons, all of which were occupied, while a hundred or more were compelled to stand. At the northeast corner of the building, on C street, was erected a stage on which were seated those who officiated in the ceremony of laying the stone, and a number of the clergy of the Methodist Church of this city and from abroad. On the stage were Bishop J. C. Hartzell, bishop of Africa; Presiding Elder Luther B. Wilson, the pastor, Rev. G. W. Hobbts, Revs. H. B. Nallor, McKendres, C. W. Baldwin, Wesley M. E. O. A. The one whom we so dearly loved no longer with us could stay.

On! how to our memory this say ches stay and causes our hearts to shudder;

And every day we feel it more, for we certainly miss our mother.

Twas the will of tool which must be done,
And there above she will abide;

And when to us our fate does come.

Again we will be at her side.

CHANGE IN SLEEVES.

Tight Fitting to the Elbow, Their Uppers Will He Fanctful and in Special Design.

THESE are some of the newest sleeves that will be used in the fall and winter gowns. The bishop sleeve, they say, will not be tolerated at all this season. The tendency is to push all the fullness and trimming to the shoulders. This has the effect of the shoulders. This has the effect of making one look high shouldered and contracted. To short-necked women the tendency of the present sleeves is very unbecoming. All of the new sleeves are very long, coming quite to the knuck-les and frills of soft materials are em-ployed often in giving a finish at the hand. The sleeve must be fitted carefully to the arm as far up as the elbow, certainly. And those who care for the extremes of style have had the sleeves of their gowns made very tight the whole length, with the style have had the sieeves of their gowins made very tight the whole length, with the "butter fly puffs" at the arm-hole seam. Three bias/folk of the material put our ather full at the top of the sieeves is another way that is becoming very popular in trimming the new sleeves. The material is like the waist in spite of the fact that courasting sleeves were booked to appear.
